NATURAL WINE

An Introduction to Natural wines

Natural wines are made by growers who farm organically or biodynamically, and by adding as little as possible to their wines, they allow their vineyards to express themselves to the full. Typically, this will mean fermentation without the addition of cultured yeastes, no new oak, no added acidity or tannins, and no added Sulphur dioxide until bottling-if at all. The wines themselves are always interesting and full of flavours, sometimes raw, wild and always pure, like nature it self.
